Glad tidings, to one and all. Even those that wish fatal diseases on fellow board members.

Warm Regards,

I'm genuinely disturbed, he talked about having a wife and going to games with her for the weekend etc...

He goes with his two brothers.

Wonder if he's related to Big Ex

He'd probably make a convincing argument to suggest he is.

I'm genuinely disturbed, he talked about having a wife and going to games with her for the weekend etc...

He goes with his two brothers.

If we don't hear from him again do pass on my regards as I assume he won't be replying to my Facebook message.

Perhaps he could write a statement you can relay on his behalf

Fuck that, he's a weird one.

Will be walking in the opposite direction when I see him at games, dont want to be associated with it.

I'm sure for a man of his undoubted influence and all-round massiveness, all press releases will be delivered by an RUFC spokesman.

I certainly feel weirded out.

He used to do those 'therapy session' threads about me which were strange as it were but knowing who he is  he must have known me and wouldn't dare to approach me in real life.

The screenshot shows the Crimestoppers website interface. At the top, there is a search bar and a navigation menu with options like 'Get Involved', 'Give Information', 'Most Wanted', 'Keeping Safe', 'In Your Area', 'About Us', and a 'Donate' button. The main content area is titled 'Most Wanted Detail' and features a profile picture of a man, identified as Liam David Geoghegan. To the right of the photo, there is a red box with the text 'Recognise this person? Call us anonymously on 0800 555 111 Or you can give information anonymously online now >>'. Below the photo, there is a 'Summary' section with the text 'Can you locate Liam?'. The background of the website is white with blue and red accents.

I checked out the thread for our match, but all he had to say was this.

'well done to Carlisle. They came with a gameplan and executed it superbly' to be honest he's always seemed pretty sound towards us. I think we've found his little obsession
